

Rivalry Between Cats And Vols Will Be Renewed At Knoxville Saturday Night

Greatly Improved Tennessee Team Faces Ruppman for Second Contest

A rivalry as old as southern sports will be renewed Saturday night at Knoxville, Tenn., when the University of Kentucky Wildcats and the University of Tennessee Volunteers clash in the second basketball game of the season between these two institutions.

The first game, played here in Lexington, was won by the Wildcats 40 to 31. The Vols have improved immensely since that game and Monday night completely outclassed the Alabama Crimson Tide and scored a 28 to 20 victory. The Volunteers are a superior basketball team on their home floor and may spring a surprise victory on the Wildcats.

Kentucky's basketballers returned Wednesday from a very successful road trip into Indiana, and have been practicing diligently in an effort to improve their mistakes and get themselves in condition to battle the powerful Volunteers.

Coch Rupp and ten Wildcats, their trainer and manager, will leave Lexington tonight for Knoxville.

After the Tennessee game the Cats will return to Lexington for their last four games of the season. Next Tuesday night Xavier will come to Lexington for a return game. Friday and Saturday nights of next week the Wildcats will play host to Creighton University. Tuesday night, February 24, the Vanderbilt Commodores and the Cats will clash in a return game in Alumni gymnasium.

Guest Artist

MARY HOPPLE

Mary Hopple To Be Featured On Next Sunday's Musicales

Is Third Consecutive Year Artist Has Appeared on Local Program

By R. D. MCINTYRE

Mary Hopple, contralto, of New York City, assisted by John Shelby Richardson, of Lexington, at the piano, will present the program at the Sunday Afternoon Musicales on February 16, 1936, in the Memorial Auditorium at 4 o'clock. This will be the third consecutive season that Miss Hopple has sung on the Sunday Afternoon series, a distinction enjoyed by no other professional artist.

Three years ago the reviewer for one of the Lexington papers commented on Miss Hopple's recital as follows:

"A beautiful voice and a charming personality make Miss Hopple a happy choice for a song recital. The voice is a rich contralto with a remarkable range. She sings ringing top tones with the assurance and ease of a dramatic soprano, while the deep lower voice reveals all the beauty of a true contralto. Miss Hopple impresses one with her excellent musicianship; she is at all times artistic in interpretation; her diction is excellent in Italian, German, French and English and she gives the impression that she is singing at all times with a joyful heart. Youth and good looks, after all, add much to the enjoyment of a song recital."

Marionette Show To Appear Here On February 18

Los Angeles Group to Present Two Performances on February 18

Beginning with a children's matinee of a "Marionette Circus" at 2:30 p. m. Thursday and ending that night with a double bill featuring consisting of dramatizations of "Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer" and an eight act "Continental Review," the famous Olvera Street Marionettes of Los Angeles will present their production under the auspices of the Henry Clay High school Parent Teacher's association at the Henry Clay High school auditorium February 18. The evening performance will begin at 8 o'clock.

The show, by reason of its technical assets in way of lighting, costuming and scenery, promises to furnish plenty of entertainment for persons who enjoy the simpler type of drama, as characterized in the immortal story of Mark Twain, as well as enjoyment along the more sophisticated lines, evidenced in the eight act "Continental Review." Plenty of humor, comedy and laughs as well as pathos, is promised for the patrons.

A novel feature of the show is that the leads are taken by puppet portraits of well known screen luminaries such as Jackie Cooper as Tom Sawyer, Shirley Temple as Becky Thatcher, Stepin Fetchit as Negro Lemuel and Edna May Oliver as Aunt Polly. Marionettes that sing, walk, talk, skate, play musical instruments and do circus tricks confide an atmosphere of realism to the production.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS U. K. IN BOND ISSUE CASE

$600,000 Bonds to Supplement Direct Grant from U. S. Government to Erect Buildings

PRIVATE BROKERAGE MAY BUY PAPERS

Stoll, Muir, Townsend, Park, Vincent, Jones Represent University

The Kentucky court of appeals at Frankfort yesterday affirmed the decision of Circuit Judge King Swope in upholding the validity of a proposed bond issue by the University of Kentucky for $600,000 to supplement a direct grant from the federal government for erection of new buildings. The higher courts decision also affirmed the ruling that the bonds may be sold to private brokerage concerns instead of the federal government in order to save $84,170 in interest charges.

Previously, both points had been raised in a suit brought by the university against J. D. Van Hooser and Company, and W. E. Hutton and Company, the successful bidders for the bonds. Interest rate of 4 per cent are to be paid, as compared with 4 per cent charged by the government for such loans. In order to obtain the test the bond companies declined to accept the bonds until their validity was approved.

The University was represented in the case by the law firm of Stoll, Muir, Townsend and Park, Attorney General B. M. Vincent, and Assistant Attorney General J. W. Jones. W. L. Wallace, Lexington attorney, represented the bond purchasers.

Satire and Fantasy Are Key note of Fast Moving Comedy

Four university students will have roles in "The March Hares," which will open at the Guignol theatre Monday night, February 17. The play will be presented every night for a week and a matinee performance will be given Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

"March Hares," a fantastic, satirical comedy by Harry Wagstaff Gribble, promises to be one of the most unusual productions presented at Guignol this year. The play contains many subtle lines which have double meanings. It was originally produced in New York City at the Bijou theatres under the name of "The Temperamentalists." The dialogue as well as the setting for the play is ultra-modernistic.

John Pyle, sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, will play the leading male role, that of Geoffrey Wareham. He played Baptists in the "Taming of the Shrew."

Helen Rich, university senior, will play the part of Ethel, a maid. Miss Rich has played in other Guignol successes such as "Peter Pan" and "Counsellor-At-Law." She is a member of SuKy, University pep organization.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL
STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

AN "ALL-CAMPUS" DANCE

Tonight in the Alumni Gymnasium the first of the "substitutes" for the popular Wednesday night dances will be held. Its purpose is to keep alive that feeling of comity among the student body which has been fostered by and has grown through the medium of the week-end affairs.

The two principal advantages of the mid-week dances were first, that they provided an outlet for recreation during the week, and second, that they promoted an all-campus spirit because of their common attendance. Naturally the former advantage cannot be realized on Friday nights, but with the cooperation of the student body, the latter can be kept alive and made even more apparent.

In order to make these dances really "all-campus," they must be attended by all types of people. Fraternity men and independents must both be there; there must be a supply of beauty queens and personality-plus girls; organization officers and campus "big shots" must be present; all are necessary for the success of the dance.

Because they were attended by everyone the Wednesday night dances were popular. It is to be hoped and desired that the same attitude may prevail in regard to the Friday night affairs so, that they too may be attended by everyone from May queens to Freshmen in Arts and Science. If such is the case these dances will be a success and the administration will be justified in sponsoring them; otherwise they are doomed to failure and their continuance will not be advisable.

Let's all be on hand tonight and have a big time TOGETHER!

HELP!

In September, 1933, Omicron Delta Kappa started a movement to secure funds to furnish a Student Union Building. At that time various social fraternities and sororities pledged to support this movement. There were few honories which signified their intention of aiding this cause. During the last few weeks Omicron Delta Kappa has been working on this project. Letters have been sent to the fraternities and sororities on the campus. So far only a few have responded to the requests.

An appropriation of approximately $250,000 has been stipulated for the erection of such a building. To use this fund to the utmost in the erection of the building will leave very little for furnishing. It has been proposed to furnish this building with the aid of the student body and faculty. And now with the appropriation already in hand, it is the duty of all to support to the utmost this much needed improvement.

CAN YOU CAST A STONE?

Although facts are somewhat scarce as to the actual developments taking place in the recently uncovered "cheating ring" at the University of North Carolina, we believe that it is not presumptuous to state that it is, at the least, embarrassing and humiliating to officials and students of that university that anything of the kind could have happened there.

The practice of what has been termed "cribbing" has been more or less an evil which instructors and better thinking students everywhere have attempted to curb in all our schools and colleges. The charge, however, that there has been any recent increase in this practice over the days of our fathers and grandfathers, The Kernel denies. That the extreme athleticism which has been indulged in lately by many of our universities has caused a general increase in "cribbing" does not seem to be a logical answer to this question. It is to be hoped that the situation at Chapel Hill is not taken up by the general public as a damaging conclusion against all our educational institutions.

The honor system as used by several colleges has long been thought of as an ideal remedy for this situation. However, when an "organized cheating bureau," as it has been called, can exist in a school where that system is apparently strongly intrenched, it leaves us in some doubt as to the practicability of the honor system under extreme pressure.

The Kernel, nonetheless, until shown otherwise, will refuse to believe that the situation at Chapel Hill is a vicious one, or that it is other than the practice of a small and unrepresentative group of that student body. It is not in the spirit of airing someone else's wash that we intend this. Rather, "Let him who is without sin," either in college or out, "cast the first stone."

Proprietors of the College Inn, New London, Conn., are suing Connecticut College for having placed the restaurant "out of bounds" for students.

Enrollment in Haverford's courses for the college janitors and kitchen men jumped this year from 11 to 25. Subjects include civics, algebra and French.

"Whoopie," alleged by-word of the dear old "collegiate" days, has been revealed as just another word of British origin.

The University of Wisconsin and Brown are two of the few American colleges which maintain handicraft workshops for their students.

St. Mary's College, famous for outstanding football teams, faces a financial crisis. Bondholders may foreclose on their $1,370,000 investment.

On Military

Editor's Note: The following statements made by the presidents of various colleges and universities, taken from the pamphlet "Statements by Presidents of Universities and Colleges on the Educational Value of Military Training," voice their opinion on the matter of military education in the American universities. We have heard what the students have to say on the subject, and so now let us hear what the administrative side of the question has to offer.

The pamphlet contains the statements of presidents of sixty-seven universities throughout the United States. These statements will be published in group of five in this column of the Kernel until the entire pamphlet has been published. In publishing these opinions, however, the Kernel does not enter to either side of the question, but is merely performing a courtesy to the administration.

FRANK L. McVEY, President
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

I have observed the courses offered in the field of military science at different colleges and universities and I think I may say that they do distinctly give a beneficial result. A student gets a sense of order and understanding of the orderly movement of groups and some knowledge of the meaning of war. In addition to that he has an opportunity of preparing himself for useful leadership in time of war.

GEORGE H. DENNY, President
UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

In my judgment the R. O. T. C. organization has meant a great deal to the University of Alabama. It has improved the discipline. It has given valuable physical training to our students. It has benefited every student in the organization in various ways. It has taught the students the value of promptness and obedience to higher authority. It has contributed to the spirit of the student body.

ALEXANDER G. RUTHVEN, Pres.
UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

I have been favorably impressed with the influence of our R. O. T. C. unit on the campus. In my opinion, the fact that the work is purely voluntarily has done much for the unit. It has meant that only the men interested have elected the work and the morale of the unit has thus been high. I have observed that the pride which the men have taken in the unit, the type of men who have enlisted, and their deportment have operated to improve the manners of the student body.

JOHN J. TIGERT, President
UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA

I think that the present course offers considerable value for physical improvement, development of coordination, organization, and perhaps has some disciplinary value. For a number of years I was an athletic director and football coach. I am satisfied that regular drill is more beneficial for building health and physique than strenuous games like football played with considerable danger and always under great nervous strain.

RAYMOND M. HUGHES, President
IOWA STATE COLLEGE

The R. O. T. C. is a part of the educational work of Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa. The work is required for freshmen and sophomores and is elective for juniors and seniors. We have a fine group of officers here and the work has been handled in a very effective way. I believe the educational value is about on a par with other courses. We are graduating each year a considerable number of officers and I have reason to believe they are quite well trained in comparison with the graduates of other college units.

Hoi Pollui

Realizing that practically all of the originators of this column in the past four or five years have given it up due to the bad feeling that was created, it is with misgivings that I am attempting to carry it on, but with the hope that any remarks that might be said will be taken in good spirit. And also realizing that this column is the first read by 75 per cent of the student body, I beg you to bear with me until the hang of the thing finally comes to me.

Bouquet

With a determination not to let our predecessors get ahead of us in bestowing roses, we take this opportunity to toss a dozen American Beauties to Tridelt Jean Short, who is our choice for being one of the sweetest coeds in school. Radiating smiles and hellos, Jean is our proof that this is not such a bad old world after all. Here's to you, Jean.

Modern Casanova?

Kentucky's fairest are either turning on their "all" or else he has just mistaken the fervor of Southern hospitality for love. Whatever it is, Jim Davidson, recent addition to the Phidelt lodge from Pennsylvania, sure goes for it in a great big way, as he has already proposed marriage to three girls within the span of his first two weeks here. The lucky ones? Martha Alexander, Mary Lebus, and Joyce Wright. Freshman, we imagine you had better be thinking of some good answers by next Wednesday night if we know Louis Hillenmeyer, Dossel Reid (III), and Dick Bush, ardent authors of the above mentioned girls.

Turn About, Bob

Our fellow columnist, Bob Hess, must have not known of his own predicament when he wrote of Lon McLoney's misfortune. Anyway it seems that Bob asked the girl back home in Chicago to come down to the Phidelt formal. Little thinking that she would be able to accept, he also asked Toddy Borries. Yes, you guessed it. They both have taken him up. For a nominal sum Lon said he could get one or the other off your hands, Bob.

Personalities Plus

The Coin Exhibit, held a week or so ago, drew some very colorful characters, if we may judge by the names signed in the registration book. Among the more noted were Bruno Hauptmann, Two-Gun Pete, Shirley Temple, Santa Claus (very appropriate), Adolph Hitler, and Aga Khan IV.

Tough Luck, Bobbo

The expected, but long awaited for, has finally come to pass. Nancy Dyer is now the proud possessor of the Phidelt pin belonging to Nathan Elliot. Congrats to you both.

More True Love

Dan Ewing, past semester president of the Pkaps, was afflicted with the love bug again the other night and handed over his president's charm, a cherished object, to Tridelt ploy Margaret Young. By the way Dan, did you duel at the Tavern end take place? What was HER name?

And Still More Love

From way down town we hear that Clayton Martin is secretly married, and the rumor comes from a mightily reliable source.

Ramblings

Don't forget to look elsewhere in this edition for the new column which is being initiated by a former Hoi Pollui writer. In Bob's own words it's just "a bit of nonsense every edition."

Fan Mail, Yeah Man

Since Frances Wood's picture has been published in the Collegiate Digest and the Chicago Tribune she has been swamped with letters proposing anything from marriage to a rich man's secretary.

Tonight opens the first of the Compromise Dances. That is, the Wednesday night social affairs which are in the future to be held on Friday nights. As it is the best that can be obtained at present let's all cooperate and TRY TO MAKE them a success.

Statistics

A cigarette is two and three quarters inches long. The average smoker consumes approximately 15 cigarettes a day, or over three feet of cylindrical tobacco. During a college student's days of higher education he smokes enough cigarettes to stretch 10 miles, were they placed end to end. Over a period of 40 years, a nicotine fiend puffs in to smoke enough fags to stretch from Lexington far beyond Cincinnati. Over a period of four years, the girls in one sorority alone smoke enough coffin nails to reach from Lexington to Washington, D. C. So what?

Excessive morals
Get no laurels.

When there is no work to do, a man talks about women. When there is no man to work, a woman talks about how men talk about women.

The letter: "I met Hugh at a masquerade and he immediately fell violently in love with me. I have a date with him tomorrow and I'm afraid that he won't like me when he sees my pimply complexion. What can I do?"
The answer: "Break the date!"

FUNKHOUSER SPEAKS

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, head of the Zoology department of the University, and dean of the Graduate school, addressed the Woman's club of Somerset, Friday evening, February 7. His subject was "The Romance of the Garden."

Prof. F. L. Hall, who has been ill for some time, is now recovered sufficiently to resume his classes this semester.

"Can you really talk through a wire?" people still asked when this telephone switchboard went into service back in 1881. Apparatus was crude—service limited—but the idea was right. It took hold in spite of ridicule. Today there are more than 13,000,000 telephones in the Bell System—telephone conversations average 60,000,000 daily—the service is faster and clearer than ever. Telephone growth and improvement will go on. For Bell System men and women work constantly toward one goal: enabling you to talk to anyone, anywhere, anytime.

STUDENT UNION

The New Student Union at Montana

The Montana Student Union, located upon the campus of Montana State University at Missoula is the largest building upon the campus and will be the center of nearly two thousand students. The building was made possible when a loan and grant was obtained from the Federal Emergency administration of Public Works in the spring of 1934. Preceding that time the students had voluntarily assessed themselves a quarterly fee, the proceeds of which were to be used for such a building. The funds for the operation of the Union are obtainable from rentals of various portions of the building and from a five-dollar fee collected from all students. These funds are also used to refund the bonded debt.

The policies of the Union are under the control of a committee composed of three faculty members appointed by the president of the institution, five student members selected by a Central Board, governing body of the students, and of the president of the Alumni association. The direct management is in the hands of a manager, an assistant manager, and a secretary. The student store, which leases the ground floor of the building, is separately owned and operated and under its own management, a store board and manager.

The use of the lounge rooms is governed by a committee composed of representative members of Beta Psi, men's honorary, Spur, women's honorary, Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, and the traditions committee of the associated students. The chairman of the group is a member of the associated committee. This committee is directly responsible to the management. Its purpose is not so much to police the room, as it is to promote the idea of student self-government. Its problem this year is one of education; members of the committee and of the groups the committee represents will of course have power to report any major infractions of rules which have been published.

The building is divided into two parts, the auditorium and the "Union" proper. The auditorium is used for the presentation of student dramatic productions, all university musical shows, guest speakers and artists sponsored by the associated students, athletic carnivals, and student convocations. It is planned to sponsor student amateur nights and radio broadcasts.

The student store and cafe occupies the entire ground floor of the building and provides complete store facilities and accommodations for nearly one hundred people in the cafe. Banquet equipment for nearly four hundred people is at the disposal of the building and store management.

The lounge room, in which magazine and game facilities are maintained, is open to students at all times; special radio programs will be featured. There are three ball rooms in the building which can be used for student dances, and for the social functions of all fraternities and sororities and student groups. In addition the two small ball rooms can be used for afternoon teas, and for exhibits of the various departments and schools.

These ballrooms are rented to the groups, the rentals being applied to general operation of the building, and to funding the bonded indebtedness. The building is equipped with a complete sound system valued at $2,500 and with an electric organ. The sound service is used in the auditorium and is also used in the ballrooms to permit dancing in all three at the same time without the use of three orchestras.

The management has a general office in the building in addition to which there are student offices, meeting and club rooms. Facilities are provided for the entertainment of guests and alumni through the use of a special lounge room. Check room facilities are provided for the ball rooms.

It is anticipated that in time all campus activities will be centered in the building. The management will be responsible for all activities now established in the building, and for promoting additional activities. Ticket sales for athletic events, and for productions sponsored in the auditorium will be carried on through the general office. All arrangements for convocations, dances, and departmental exhibits will be made with the management. At the present time one of the biggest activities of the general office staff is to properly conduct friends, parents, visitors, and alumni through the building and to see that sufficient explanations of the various rooms are given.

Notre Dame handed Kentucky's basketball team its most disastrous defeat since Coach Rupp has assumed command here. On the following night, the Wildcats rebounded to wallop Butler University's Bulldogs emphatically.

It's getting to be awfully hard to figure just what this Kentucky team is going to do next. They have the knack of winning when least expected, probably, but failed to live up to this rule against the Irish at South Bend. Playing Pittsburgh, Michigan State and Butler, the 'Cats were given only an even chance to come through but won handily on all three occasions.

Not only is it hard to figure out what the team is going to do but it is also tough to predict what the individual members of the team may do. One night Ralph Carlisle has a big evening and no one else can even see the hoop. The following game might see "Red" Hagen or Garland Lewis on a scoring spree, pushing the pill through the basket with astonishing regularity. Every so often Warfield Donohue enjoys standing out on the floor and heaving a few through the netting. But never do the boys get together and agree to set up a co-operative scoring system. If all the potential points were registered, there would never be any doubt of the outcome of most games. About the only thing we can do about the situation is hope for the best.

When Coach Rupp arrived at the hotel in South Bend and had put his charges safely in their rooms, he was approached by Notre Dame's student manager who asked him if he had any guests with him who would be needing tickets for the game that night. When Coach Rupp told him that he had no guests, the manager came through with the fast reply, "That's good. We haven't any tickets left, anyway."

The fact that the Fieldhouse in South Bend was already sold out on the morning of the battle came as somewhat of a surprise to Coach Rupp. He had hardly expected that sort of reception after his team had already been beaten twice. So he asked the manager what was the reason for all the interest.

"Well," said the student, "the folks around here have been waiting for this game for years and now that they've got the opportunity to see it they're not going to miss it."

Coach Rupp asked, "When did Notre Dame play their last game?" "Oh, about a week ago," replied the manager, "they've been putting in plenty of practice for this game." Whereupon, Coach Rupp decided immediately that his club was certain to pass a stormy evening. And they sure did.

Langan Hay made his initial appearance on the wrestling card at Woodland auditorium Wednesday night....in the first of the four amateur matches included in the show....Norris "Bo" McMillan won his second professional bout the same night....subduing Sailor Parker with a series of flying tackles...."Bo" is scheduled to appear in the semifinal next week....when the Wildcats traveled to South Bend they did it by leaps and bounds....first they rode to Winchester in private cars....then boarded a train to Cincinnati....where they were joined onto the L. & N....and taken into Plymouth, Indiana, for the night....the next morning a bus carried them into South Bend...."Big Ed" Edwards watched his former teammates beat Butler and came around for a session after the game....Ed had a big night against the Cincinnati Redlegs last Sunday....scoring 11 field goals and five fumbles from a forward position for a total of 27 points....it seems that Ray Fehrman is the new badminton champion of Greater Cincinnati....having won the title in a tournament between semesters....Notre Dame and New York University, two of Kentucky's conquerors clash this weekend in Madison Square Garden....with us figuring that the Irish are due to snap the New Yorkers win streak in the huge Garden....Bob Pritchard, Wildcat back of two years ago, is back in school and ready to report for spring football drills....it is possible that Coach Wynne may convert Pritchard into an end to strengthen the flanks....other things than the music go round and round....the basketball situation does also, sometimes....Butler beat Purdue which beat Notre Dame which beat Kentucky which beat Butler....so what?

INTRAMURAL

Monday, February 17, marks the opening of the intramural basketball tournament, with probably the strongest teams in the history of the intramural competition. With fifteen fraternity teams and four independent teams entered, compechampions when they oppose West Virginia.

Last season, the Mountaineers were runners-up to Wisconsin for the national intercollegiate title and while several of their star performers were lost through graduation, they still have a powerful squad. The Mountaineers have defeated Bucknell and Miami and have tied Pittsburgh in dual matches so far this season.

Kentucky's only match this season has been the Tennessee fray in which they were defeated 4 to 3 1/2. Teddy Curry, Bob Forsythe and Nick Lutz each won their matches against the Vols while Jimmy Wadlington fought to a draw. Lutz' victory was a costly one to the team as he injured his hand so severely that he will be out of competition for the remainder of the season.

The Wildcats went through trial drills Wednesday afternoon at which time Coach Bill Hanson selected the men who made the trip today. Only two changes were made in the lineup which faced Tennessee. Sherman Hinkbine, center of the varsity football squad, will take John Drury's place in the heavy-weight division and Joe Moore will replace the injured Lutz in the 175-pound class.

FROSH FIVE TO PLAY THREE GAMES

Coach Paul McBrayer and his Kentucky freshmen basketball team left here yesterday on a three-day tour of Eastern Kentucky and Tennessee that will find them in combat with the University of Tennessee freshmen, Sue Bennett college varsity, and the Cumberland Junior college quintet.

The Kittens met the Tennessee Rats in a return game at Knoxville last night, which like the Kitten-Rat game played in Lexington last week, was a benefit game for Herbie Tade, injured Tennessee football player.

The Kittens will meet the Sue Bennett college five tonight in London, and Saturday night they will encounter the strong Cumberland Junior college aggregation at Williamsburg.

The next Engineer's assembly will be held Wednesday, February 10, at 10 a. m. in Memorial hall with Prof. M. E. Ligon, College of Education, the speaker.

RUPPMEN GET EVEN BREAK ON CAMPAIGN INTO INDIANA

An even break in games won and lost was recorded by the University of Kentucky Wildcats on their invasion of the state of Indiana early this week, when they lost to the Notre Dame's Ramblers Monday night 41 to 20, and marked up a 39 to 28 victory over the Bulldogs of Butler University Tuesday night.

In the Notre Dame tussle, Kentucky was held to three field goals in the first half while the Ramblers piled up a 29 to 7 lead. After the rest period the Notre Dame team ran this advantage to 38 to 7 at which point the Indiana coach began to substitute freely.

Ralph Carlisle, ace scoring forward for the Wildcats, was guarded so closely by Frank Wade, Irish guard, that he failed to register a point. Red Hagen stepped into Carlisle's shoes and connected with six field goals for 12 points.

This was the worst defeat a Wildcat team has suffered since Coach Rupp took charge of basketball here at Kentucky.

Still smarting under the lacing they had received on the night before the Wildcats rebounded into Indianapolis Tuesday night and soundly drubbed the Butler Bulldogs 39 to 28.

The Kentuckians completely turned the tables Tuesday night and had a commanding lead of 17 to 7 over the Bulldogs at the end of the first half.

Shortly after the start of the second half the Butler team began a counter attack that brought them within six points of the Wildcats. With the score standing at 31 to 25, Carlisle, "Cat forward, dropped in three one-handed field goals to put the Ruppmen ahead by a comfortable margin.

Carlisle regained his hitting eye Tuesday night, garnering 11 points, but Lewis, lanky center, copped high scoring honors for the Kentucky team and for the game, registering five field goals and three free throws for a total of 13 points.

With one close defeat already charged against them, the University of Kentucky's varsity boxing team left early this morning for Morgantown where they will meet West Virginia's pugilists tomorrow night in the huge Fieldhouse.

Kentucky's chances for a victory over West Virginia appear to be slight. The Kentuckians, deprived of two of their outstanding performers in Westbrook and Rogan, will be battling the Eastern Conference
